

Code of Conduct

Ok, let's keep this simple guys, appreciate you thinking this is just ANOTHER tick box document to pad out the event folder but... It's brief, but honest and represents what we are, and is REALLY IMPORTANT to us so please read, we don't think it needs to be anymore complicated.

This is our event, the riders event, the volunteers event, the spectators event, the locals event... it's your event. We pretty much consider everyone involved with TongDuro as family ,and because of this, it's important we all make sure the weekend is a safe and enjoyable environment at all times.

Regardless of your age, race, gender, religion, sexuality, disability... we expect everyone to respect each other without discrimination & with equality at all times, pretty simple really aye!

The reason we created Tongduro was to bring you guys an amazing event with a community feel so EVERYONE can enjoy & take home with them some awesome memories. Do as you would at home, help each other, respect each other, don't judge, don't curse, just be all round good dudes who recognise each others needs and quirks, we're all different but... let's all just get along like the good bikers we are and have an amazing weekend, after all, we don't want to dissappoint the parents do we!

No threats here for what may happen if people don't embrace our code of conduct, its pretty easy, we'd just rather not have you as part of the Tongduro family.

If you have any concerns or specifics, you'd like to talk through then please do not hesitate to contact us directly and in confidence:
